

Adam Francis Smith (1865 – 1911)

I was handed down items from Adam Francis Smith and felt compelled to investigate his life's journey. He was born March 29, 1865, on his Father's farm in Mount Pleasant Township near Mount Rock, now called Centennial Pennsylvania, the same farm his father Pius Stanislaus Smith (1822 – 1883) was born and later owned. He was the youngest of seven children, all of them males. His Grandfather Joseph Smith (1788/89 – 1863) was born in Allemagne Germany and fought on the American side of the war of 1812.

The 1870 Census mimics the 1872 Mount Pleasant Adams County Pennsylvania map where it shows Michael and Barbara Little and William and Agnes Krug as farming neighbors to Pius S. Smith (Carpenter) and his family. Another close neighbor, Samuel and Agnes Little where he was a professional Mason.

Adam had just turned four years old so was not in school. His three older brothers (John, Pius P, Joseph) were enrolled. Nathaniel followed his father into carpentry business while Lewis at the age of twenty was reported as living at home. Mary Ann Foller (age 55) was listed as living with the family. She is the aunt of Adam and the sister of his mother, Adaline Foller Smith. When she passed, she was buried at Conewago where a year or more later Pius Peter and Laura Smith would bury their infant Annie Elizabeth.

Many of the neighboring family names are still nearby today.

Surnames of Pohlman, Lawrence, Myers, Weaver, and many others.

By the 1880 Census, Adam was 15 years of age and no longer in school but helping and working at their Mount Rock / Mount Pleasant Township home. His brother Joseph (19) and Pius Peter (23) are living with the family as well and helping with the farm. John appears to have followed his older brother Nathaniel and father Pius Stanislaus (58) into the Carpentry profession. Adaline is home helping with the farm; her sister no longer lives with them while they now have Susan Gallagher (29) living with them and is listed as a servant. Families that did not have any daughters very often had house cleaners that helped with the house chores and cooking.

Susan replaced Mary Ann Foller, and her surname is often spelt in many different ways. The Gallagher surname ranks in the top surnames in Ireland, and there are some thirty-plus variations of this Irish last name. The family name has a long and deep history in the Mount Rock (Centennial) area. The only other Susan Gallagher reference found is her participation in an 1883 baptism service for Adams brother Nathaniel and wife Louisa Ginter-Smith. She served with Adam as a witness to Nathaniel's & Luisa's fourth child, Phillip Francis Joseph "Felix" Smith at the Sacred Heart Conewago church.

In 1887, Adam and the daughter of his uncle George, Agnes Smith-Redding, were the official witnesses to the marriage of Pius Peter and Laura Lawrence-Smith's February 20th Sacred Heart church wedding.

The 1890 Census data was mostly lost to a major 1921 fire so there is limited information available. This is well documented and contains many questions, complaints and conspiracy theories about accuracy and fraud. New York State officials were accused of bolstering census numbers, and the intense business competition between Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota, resulted in at least nineteen indictments against Minneapolis businessmen for allegedly adding more than 1,100 phony names ("First in the Path of the Firemen | National Archives")

In the York Democratic Press social news section of June 27, 1890, it has a Newspaper report of Adam F. Smith of Hanover being badly kicked by a Horse! Soon thereafter he moves to Reading Pennsylvania and takes up residence for the next eight plus years.

By 1891 Adam had moved to Reading Pennsylvania and joined the local Bartenders Union and remained a member through the rest of his life. He first moved to 402 North 6th Street and is documented as a Bartender in the local directory. His residence appears to have been a boarding house near the active main train station (see picture & maps).

By the next year Adam moves to George Romig's Continental Hotel at 341-345 North 9th Street where he becomes a Clerk and Bartender and listed in the Reading City Directory from 1891 through 1900. The Census report for 1900 lists him as residing at the Continental and as the clerk / bartender. This move confuses the Postal Office, and a letter is listed as undeliverable by the Reading Times Newspaper. In their August 18th, 1891, issue they report the undeliverable letter notifying all and that he has two weeks to pick up his mail or it will be returned to sender.

Further investigation is needed to understand why Adam moved to Reading. Who was he close to there that prompted him to come to Reading? Probably due to relatives since so many from the Adams County area residents came from or had relatives in the Reading / Berks County area. In one letter he mentions family, but a specific connection or member cannot be determined at this time. He also became a Bartender and joined the Reading Bar Tenders Union.

In 1899 Adam either bought or received a ticket to go to the Reading Liederkranz February 7th which is a German American social club. It was one of eleven local German organizations in the late 1800's, organized by eight Germans as a German Singing Society in Bowman's Hall, North Tenth Street, Reading, Pennsylvania, on July 23, 1885.

For the first seventeen years the singers practiced in rented facilities throughout Reading. Finally on March 26, 1902, property at 833-835 Chestnut Street was purchased. In 1909 the building was razed, and a new clubhouse was built, designed to be a singing hall. The new building was dedicated on the 5th Sangerfest of the United Singers of Pennsylvania, June 1910. ("Club History — Reading Liederkranz") The Chestnut Street building was the club's home for the next 88 years. In 1990 the current property was bought at 143 Spook Lane.

Translated, the ticket reads Ninth Big or Great Masked Ball of Reading Liederkranz, Tuesday 7, February 1899 in the harmony Men's Choir Ball Complimentary Ticket for Sir or Mr. Adam Smith.

The Reading Liederkranz is still open today with a highly active schedule of events.

In the 1900 Census taken on June 9th, Adam is reported to be living and employed as Bartender / Clerk at Reading's Continental Hotel. This is a significant hotel near the Railroad Terminal on Ninth Street. He reports that he has been working full-time for the last 12 months. This Census shows Forty-seven more people are registered at the hotel as boarders which includes two male hostlers (horse carers) and seven women servants who are mostly young and single.

In September of 1902 Adam writes twice from Reading to his Brother Pius Peter back in the Mount Pleasant / Mt Rock area. These letters are exceedingly difficult to read due to the handwriting, phonetic spelling, language / accent, and pure age of the letters. They are written on the Hotel Lafayette's letter paper with the proprietor's name of C. M. Weber crossed out.

Reading Railroad Serviced Reading to Gettysburg

The Lafayette's Landlord C. M. Weber, was arrested in December of 1900 for selling liquor to minors, selling it on Sunday and on election day and finally selling it to intoxicated persons. Both the Bartender and General Manager provided police statements, but neither were Adam Smith. The charge was later thrown out of court in March of 1901. We do not know if on this trip to Reading, if Adam stayed at the Hotel Lafayette, or did he just use their writing paper?

A few takeaways from his writings include mentioning family in the Reading area but it is inconclusive as to who that is directly. Adam in his letters asks about Pius Peter's wife, children and their Uncle George. He talks of his life in Reading and the Reading Coal Strike of 1902. The strike affected many and he has difficulty finding work and may go off to Philadelphia for employment. It was a bloody strike and President Theodore Roosevelt intervened as a neutral arbitrator. Adam mentions local family and the local Hospital being full and boarding costs. [\[Adam's letters are included here below\]](#).

By the 1890's Train travel was extremely popular and common. People could travel from the Hanover area to Philadelphia and return late the same day. Adam occasionally traveled back and forth from Reading to Mount Pleasant. He remained remarkably close to his Brother Pius Peter who by then owned their father's farm.

Adam likely attended the funeral of his brother's wife, Laura Lawrence-Smith who passed March 9, 1909. Since he was Pius Peter's witness at his wedding, corresponded from Reading a few times, it is probable he visited and stayed in the area to console his brother and his family. Laura's documented cause of death was epileptic convulsions which is a common somatic comorbidity with emphysema. It is just speculation, but he probably returned home when his Uncle George passed away on April 15th 1894.

The deceased was a son of the late Pius S. Smith of Mt. Pleasant township. He was a member of Hanover Aerie of Eagles and also of the Bar Tenders' Union of Reading. He was employed for several years at Hotel Oxford, New Oxford, and later at the

Adam F. Smith Dies Suddenly
After Returning from Church.

Adam F. Smith, bar clerk at the New Ocker House, this place, died suddenly at 11 a. m. Sunday, of heart disease, aged about 45 years. Mr. Smith arose Sunday morning in the best of health, and attended the early Mass at St. Aloysius' church. On returning to the hotel, as he was passing up the stairway to his room, he was stricken, and carried to his room in an unconscious condition, where he expired a few minutes later. He was a son of the late Pius Smith, of Mt. Pleasant township. He was a member of Hanover Aerie of Eagles and also of the Bar Tenders' Union, Reading. He was employed for several years at Hotel Oxford, New Oxford, and later at the American House, Hanover. He is survived by three brothers—John Smith, of Gettysburg; Pius P., of Mt. Rock, and Joseph F. Smith, of Hanover. Funeral on Wednesday, January 4; services and interment at Conewago Chapel at 9 a. m., Rev. Germanus Kohl officiating.

According to Gettysburg historians, this classic J. I. Mumper (1843 – 1916) portrait photo was taken around 1998. Pius Peter and Laura M Lawrence-Smith are identified with writing on the reverse side. This portrait was given to three different families.

For years after the Civil War the Gettysburg Battlefield was quite popular with locals and visiting Tourist for touring around and in their Sunday's best outfits. Photographer's would set up at their designated spots and offer to take and deliver photos for an average of 50 cents. This price was very competitive compared to what it would cost to visit an in-house studio. Thus, tourist both local and far away, would tour around the Battlefield and the photographers would be standing at their designated spots offering their services for a fair price to take their picture.

The Government started to license Photographers to specific battlefield locations to take formal pictures starting in 1895. They would have to rotate so all the photographers had opportunities at the best locations.

The Devil's Den site and a few others quickly became a very popular places so now licensed photographers had these designated picture taking places.

Historians point out that this photo is of close relatives, and not two different or random parties jumping into one picture to maximize cost savings or photographer's revenue.

So, could the relative in this picture include Pius Peter's brother, Adam F. Smith? Hopefully over time we can find other pictures of Adam and confirm...
